

Man, the Dominant Species

A Safety Montage

Thanks to Dave Thompson
AMCS(AW) retired

ORM: Occasional Risk Mismanagement

● ● ● | Once upon a time, man had the skyscraper

As society grew in sophistication, one of the benefits of technology was mirrored

● ● ● | This improvement easily lent itself to mankind's entrepreneurial spirit

● ● ● | The diversification of markets introduced new variations.

These variations took many forms.

● ● ● | We were proud of our achievements...

... of our innovations.

● ● ● | Our ingenuity allowed us
to reach new heights.

● ● ● | But regardless of our technological advancements

... the world is still a dangerous place.

● ● ● | As if behind every tree...

...there's something coming up behind us...

...or waiting to fall on us...

... or to jump out and bite
us.

● ● ● | We don't always see all the hazards...

...or the pitfalls...

...or the obstructions in our way...

...but there are many.

● ● ● | Some hazards are big...

...and some are small.

● ● ● | They can be found everywhere...

● ● ● | ...in our backyards...

● ● ● | ...in the office...

...when we're traveling...

● ● ● | ...when we're playing...

... when we're do-it-yourself-ing.

● ● ● | Don't take your safety
for granted...

...even if you've done a job a thousand times

● ● ● | Accidents happen when we least expect them...

...when we push the envelope...

...when we exceed design limitations...

...disregard procedures
and safeguards...

...act carelessly or recklessly...

...or improperly use safety equipment.

● ● ● | Or sometimes, in spite of our best efforts.

- ● ● | Clear and effective communication...

...is essential to achieving a positive safety culture.

● ● ● | Leaders must be positive role models...

...as well as
communicate support.

● ● ● | Safety must be engineered into our day-to-day routines.

● ● ● | Following precautions is a must.

● ● ● | We can't ignore...

...the signs.

● ● ● | Safety isn't something to joke around about.

● ● ● | Don't be nuts... be safe.

The End